

HYGIENE MATTERS!

As another school year draws to a close, it is the same old issues that cause most concern among parents.

According to research unveiled by SCA, one of the world's leading consumer product manufacturers in the field of hygiene and tissue paper, 71% of Brits agree that children do not learn enough about the importance of health and hygiene at school, despite a whopping 90% believing that maintaining high standards of hygiene is a school's most important responsibility.

Jenny Perez, director of the UK charity ERIC (Education and Resources for Improving Childhood Continence) commented:

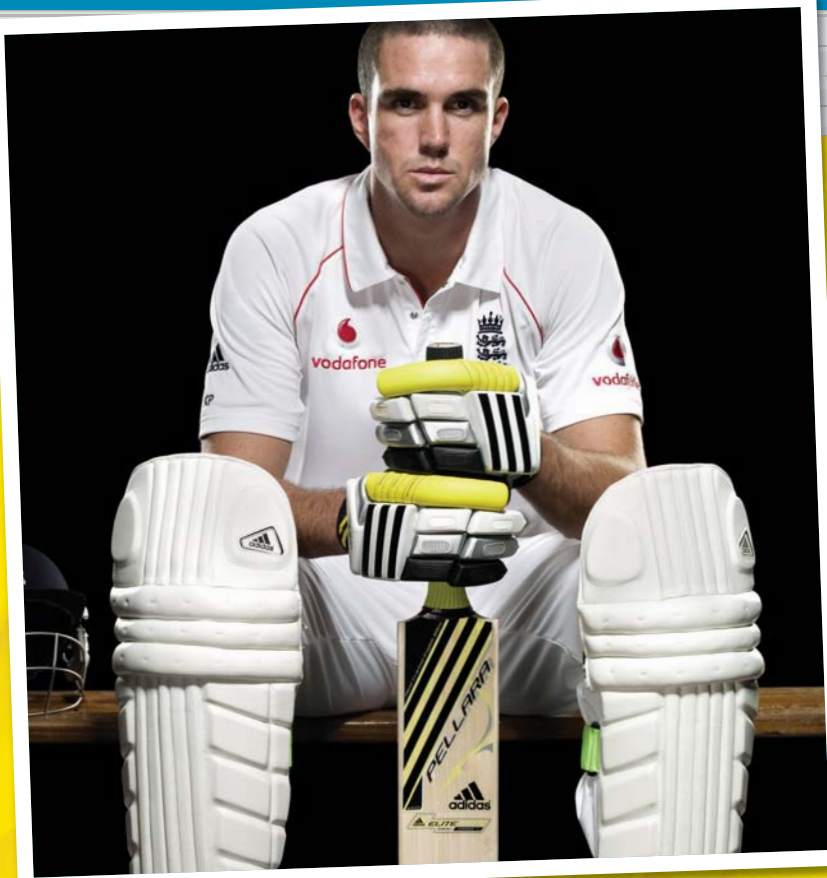

"Avoiding toilets can lead to, or exacerbate serious health problems such as incontinence (bedwetting, daytime wetting and soiling) with over one in 12 children of school age in the UK affected. But poor toilets and poor toilet hygiene are not only an issue for those with incontinence; they affect all children and young people at school and may also affect their academic attainment and attendance levels."

SMOOTH RIDE TO THE SUN

Anyone planning on purchasing a new set of wheels in which to take the family away this summer need no longer spend hours trawling the internet or dragging slumping kids around endless dealerships. The first online 'find engine' has launched and is geared up to identify car suppliers that have the exact car each buyer is looking for, quickly and securely identifiable, without having to do the legwork.

The www.findyoucars.com find engine ensures results are 100% tailored and personal. Buyers simply place a notice on the site outlining what car they are looking for along with any specific requirements (make, model, age, mileage, price) and the find engine does the rest, matching the request with its already established network of over 5,000 registered UK suppliers who have a suitable car. This effective method of car finding is free to buyers and the process is safe and secure, so they can rest-assured the dealers are fully registered and are abiding by a strict code of conduct. www.findyoucars.com has also partnered with What Car? magazine to become its official online car buying service. Comments Whatcar.com Product Manager Nick Flood: "Our partnership with www.findyoucars.com gives our 1.5 million monthly users another easy way of finding their perfect car at the price they are willing to pay, without the associated hassle. The service can be accessed from across the www.whatcar.com website and forms an important part in many of our users' journeys through research to purchase."

KP's the Daddy

KP was adamant that impending fatherhood would not distract from his cricket, saying: "If it's after the tournament that the baby comes, it's after the tournament. If it's during the tournament, I'll still be giving it my best shot whenever I play for England - no matter where or in what situation."

And he stuck to his words. Six days after the birth of his first child, Dylan Blake Pietersen, KP shone as England won the ICC World T20 in style. His quickfire 47 runs against Australia to add to a sackful against Sri Lanka, Pakistan and South Africa, sealed his well-deserved player of the tournament gong.
